How did the Fund perform last year? What affected the Fund's performance?

FUND AND MARKET PERFORMANCE

For the fiscal year ended April 30, 2025, the Steward Covered Call Income Fund (Class A) (the "Fund") returned 7.68%. For comparison purposes, the total return of the Fund's primary benchmark, the S&P 500 Index, was 12.10% over the same period. The Fund's secondary benchmark, the Cboe S&P 500 BuyWrite Index (BXM), returned 9.50% over the same period.

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE CONTRIBUTORS TO PERFORMANCE

With regard to performance attribution for the Fund during the fiscal year ended April 30, 2025, there were several sectors and individual stocks worth highlighting. From a sector allocation standpoint for the stock portfolio, the sectors contributing the most to relative performance against the S&P 500 were financials, consumer discretionary, industrials and information technology. Detracting the most from relative performance were consumer staples, energy and healthcare. Several stocks that contributed the most to relative performance were Costco, Nvidia, Tesla and Apple. Stocks detracting the most from relative performance were Intel, Conoco Phillips, Salesforce and Danaher. When considering the values-based screens we apply, the total impact to the Fund of not owning the screened-out companies was a materially positive 13 basis points.

LOOKING AHEAD

Looking ahead to the second half of the year, market volatility is expected to persist as the full impact of recent tariff policies continues to unfold across supply chains and corporate earnings. These trade-related uncertainties generally create a favorable environment for covered call strategies, particularly those focused on the S&P 100 index. The S&P 100's concentration of large, established companies with global operations provides a compelling investment universe for navigating tariff-induced volatility. A covered call approach targeting these blue-chip stocks can generate enhanced income through option premiums during volatile market periods while maintaining exposure to upside potential.

Fund Performance

The performance graph below shows the performance of a hypothetical $10,000 initial investment in the Fund's Class A over a ten-year period (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter). The subsequent account value as of the end of the reporting period is listed next to the name of the Fund or index, as applicable. The performance table below shows the average annual total returns of the Fund's Class A for the past one-, five- and ten-year periods, as applicable (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter), as of the end of the reporting period. Both the graph and table compare the performance of the Fund's Class A to an appropriate broad-based index and may compare to additional indices reflecting the market segment(s) in which the Fund invests, over the same periods.
