FUND AND MARKET PERFORMANCE

For the fiscal year ended April 30, 2025, the Steward Global Equity Income Fund (Class A) (the "Fund") returned 9.28%, underperforming the MSCI World Index (the "Benchmark") return of 12.64%. For dividend income comparison purposes, the MSCI World High Dividend Yield Index returned 11.15%.

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE CONTRIBUTORS TO PERFORMANCE

The Fund's allocation at the end of the period was 64% U.S. and 36% international. From a country perspective, the U.S. was the largest contributor to performance with a total return of 10.71%. The United Kingdom (7.40% of total net assets) was the second largest contributor with a total return of 55.81%. Colombia (0.64% of total net assets) and Mexico (0.68% of total net assets) were negative contributing countries, with total returns of -32.85% and -19.80% during the period, respectively.

The leading positive stock contributors to performance included Tapestry, Inc. (1.75% of total net assets), NatWest Group PLC (1.96% of total net assets), and Barclays PLC (1.56% of total net assets). Total return for these stocks was 99.97%, 76.39%, and 61.18% during the period, respectively. Leading negative stock contributors to performance were Microchip Technology (1.10% of total net assets), Veren (0.77% of total net assets), and Target Corp (0.43% of total net assets). Total return for these stocks was -35.08%, -39.96%, and -36.48% for the period, respectively.

Relative to the Benchmark, performance was negatively impacted from relative underweights in NVIDIA, Apple, and Tesla which rose 26.10%, 25.35%, and 53.95% during the period, respectively. These stocks were excluded from the Fund because their dividend yields failed to meet longstanding minimum criteria for the strategy.

For the fiscal year ended April 30, 2025, the Fund's values-based screening policies had a positive impact on performance relative to the Benchmark. For example, the screens restricted Merck & Co. from purchase in the Fund due to the company's Embryonic Stem Cell Research as well as UnitedHealth Group due to its Abortion activities. Total return during the period for these stocks was -32.12% and -13.57%, respectively. Not owning these underperforming stocks positively impacted Fund performance.

LOOKING AHEAD

As we look ahead to the remainder of the year, we see a global landscape that remains complex but increasingly constructive for long-term investors. The recent easing of tariffs may help revive international trade and provide a tailwind for select global equities. At the same time, we remain mindful of challenges, including uneven central bank policies, stubborn inflation in certain regions, and ongoing geopolitical tensions. In this environment of heightened volatility, we continue to focus on high-quality companies with strong balance sheets and the discipline to grow their dividends through a range of market conditions. We believe that dependable dividend income, paired with selective exposure to areas of economic recovery, offers a compelling path to long-term total return. Our strategy remains centered on building a globally diversified portfolio that generates consistent income while positioning the Fund for attractive, sustainable growth over time.

Country classifications in portfolio manager commentary are based on FactSet's Country of Domicile data, which focuses on where companies conduct their primary business operations, while our fund accountant, Northern Trust, uses Bloomberg's Country of Incorporation data, which reflects where companies are legally incorporated, for purposes of the Geographical Allocation table below. These different methodologies may result in the same security being classified under different countries due to companies that operate primarily in one jurisdiction but are legally incorporated in another.

Fund Performance

The performance graph below shows the performance of a hypothetical $10,000 initial investment in the Fund's Class A over a ten-year period (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter). The subsequent account value as of the end of the reporting period is listed next to the name of the Fund or index, as applicable. The performance table below shows the average annual total returns of the Fund's Class A for the past one-, five- and ten-year periods, as applicable (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter), as of the end of the reporting period. Both the graph and table compare the performance of the Fund's Class A to an appropriate broad-based index and may compare to additional indices reflecting the market segment(s) in which the Fund invests, over the same periods.
