FUND AND MARKET PERFORMANCE

For the period August 28, 2025 (commencement of operations) through fiscal year ended April 30, 2026, the Steward Covered Call Income Fund (Class R6) (the “Fund”) returned 6.68%, underperforming the S&P 500 Index (the “Benchmark”) return of 11.76%. The Fund’s secondary benchmark, the Cboe S&P 500 BuyWrite Index (BXM), returned 11.28% over the same period.

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE CONTRIBUTORS TO PERFORMANCE

With regards to the performance attribution for the Fund during the fiscal year ended April 30, 2026, there were several sectors and individual stocks worth highlighting. From a sector allocation standpoint for the stock portfolio, the sectors contributing the most to relative performance against the Benchmark were information technology, energy, consumer discretionary and industrials. Detracting the most from relative performance were consumer staples, financials and healthcare. Several stocks that contributed the most to relative performance were Advanced Micro-Devices, Alphabet, Broadcom, Nvidia and Exxon Mobil. Stocks detracting the most from relative performance were Salesforce, ServiceNow and T-Mobile. When considering the values-based screens we apply, the total impact to the Fund by not owning the screened-out companies was a materially positive 81 basis points, with the majority of the net impact coming from our embryonic stem cell research screens and abortion-related screens.

Fund Performance

The performance graph below shows the performance of a hypothetical $10,000 initial investment in the Fund's Class R6 over a ten-year period (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter). The subsequent account value as of the end of the reporting period is listed next to the name of the Fund or index, as applicable. The performance table below shows the average annual total returns of the Fund's Class R6 for the past one-, five- and ten-year periods, as applicable (or for the life of the Fund or share class, if shorter), as of the end of the reporting period. Both the graph and table compare the performance of the Fund's Class R6 to an appropriate broad-based index and may compare to additional indices reflecting the market segment(s) in which the Fund invests, over the same periods.
