Markets and Performance

The S&P 500 suffered its first quarterly decline since the depths of the pandemic in Q1 of 2020, returning -4.60% for Q1 2022. The Russell 1000 Growth Index returned -9.04%, meaningfully lagging the Russell 1000 Value Index which returned -0.74%. The Steward Large Cap Growth Fund (Institutional shares) returned -8.70% for the quarter, outperforming its Russell 1000 Growth benchmark by 34 basis points (bps). The majority of the underperformance occurred in March. The Fund was hurt by the strong rebound in high growth companies as investors turned back to focus on growth and defensives as the yield curve flattened causing recession concerns.

Positive and Negative Contributors to Performance

Underperformance came entirely from sector weightings as stock selection attribution registered positive for the fund. Our underweight in industrials, energy (took profits too soon), and consumer staples were the biggest negative contributors to performance. Best stock contributors were McKesson (1.09% of total net assets) and Teradata Corporation (1.06% of total net assets), as well as underweighting Meta Platforms, Inc. (1.45% of total net assets). Worst stocks were in consumer discretionary including Bath and Body Works (0.85% of total net assets) and Tempur Sealy (0.49% of total net assets).

Looking Ahead

The Fund is positioned for slowing, but positive economic growth and earnings. As such, we hold more value and cyclical names than growth and defensive names. Largest sector overweights are technology, financials, and consumer discretionary; largest underweights include healthcare, industrials, and consumer staples.

The Fund may not achieve its objective if the managers' expectations regarding particular securities or markets are not met. Equity investments generally involve two principal risks—market risk and selection risk. The value of equity securities will rise and fall in response to general market and/or economic conditions (equity market risk). The value of any individual equity security will rise and fall in response to the market's perception of the issuer's revenues, earnings, balance sheet, credit worthiness, business plan, and overall perception of the viability of the issuer's business (selection risk).

The Fund's values-based screening policies exclude certain securities issuers from the universe of otherwise available investments. As a result, the Fund may not achieve the same level of performance as it otherwise would have in the absence of the screening process. If the Fund has invested in a company that is later discovered to be in violation of one or more screening criteria and liquidation of an investment in that company is required, selling the securities at issue could result in a loss to the Fund. Further, the Fund's values-based screening policies may prevent the Fund from participating in an otherwise suitable investment opportunity.
